In Good Time.

The rain of Wednesday and Thursday appears to have extended pretty much all over the Western country, as far at least as the Mississippi. The drouth preceding it appears to have been equally general, and farmers were beginning to fear its effects upon the corn and potatoes, but the late rain has removed their apprehensions on this score.—It could not have come more opportunely, and its benefit to the country, we think, may be estimated in millions of dollars.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE.—A man by the name of E. L. GRIFFITHS, committed suicide, Thursday, in Chicago. He had been sued by his creditors and his wages garnished, so that when pay day came he found himself penniless, and utterly without means to support his family. To add to his difficulties, his employers gave him notice that they could not be annoyed with garnishees, and unless he could make some arrangement to prevent their recurrence, his situation would be given to some one else. After vainly endeavoring to obtain a little mercy from his creditors, he returned home, and procuring a quantity of laudanum, and swallowed the potion, producing death.

He leaves a wife and four children in a perfectly destitute condition, and the creditor has got his account settled—part in cash, and the balance in widow's and orphan's tears.

CLOSE WORK.—The Oswego Commercial Times relates the particulars of an accident that happened on the railroad at Fulton. A farmer attempted to cross the track ahead of the train, in a wagon loaded with lumber, and not having made the right calculation, the hind end of the wagon was struck by the locomotive, and the load, wagon and farmer were scattered about promiscuously.—The train was stopped as soon as possible, and backed up to the spot, the witnesses expecting to find the driver a corpse, but instead of that they found him sitting on the fence, wiping the perspiration from his face, and all right, except being terribly frightened. On seeing the conductor and engineer approaching him he exclaimed, "Boys, I guess I drove a leetle too nigh !"

AN EASTERN PAPER states that an extensive farmer at the West has offered to employ Mr. FAWKES, (the inventor of the steam plow,) to plow one thousand acres of land, paying him the usual price—$8 per acre.—This offer should be accepted, and if the new steam plowing machine proved itself capable of doing its work on so grand a scale, and in a workmanlike manner, it would be one of the greatest achievements of the age.

A MURDERESS ARRESTED.—MRS. BILANSKY, who escaped from the St. Paul jail last week, was arrested last Monday near Lake Como. An accomplice named WALKER was also taken, and both are now confined. When Mrs. BILANSKY was arrested, she was attired in male habiliments, and had been concealed previously in the woods, obtaining her food from WALKER, through a German boy, who is also in custody.

LIFE PRESERVING CAR.—A life preserving car has been invented down East. It is constructed entirely of iron, of strong iron braces and girdles, and of iron panel pieces, so peculiarly and ingeniously put together that it would seem to be impossible, by any amount of force, to bend or break it, or to do injury to it even by rolling it down a precipice.

Kossuth.

Mr. John M. Adams, of Glasgow, writes to the North British Daily Mail:

"This morning I have received very late and trustworthy intelligence from M. Kossuth. Particulars I am not yet at liberty to communicate. However, for the satisfaction of his numerous friends, I may state that since his betrayal, he remained only long enough to save as many of his revolted countrymen from harm as he could, and to prevent any further at present hopeless insurrection. He then retired into Switzerland, where he was joined by Madame Kossuth three days ago, and it is uncertain whether he may not be obliged to remain for some weeks before he returns to England."

FORGERY—DRAFT STOLEN.—The police are engaged in ferreting out the parties to a recent theft and forgery transaction in this city, the circumstances of which are as follows: Some parties in Milwaukee sent a draft to Mr. Valentine Young, of this city, not many days since, which he failed to receive. Upon being assured that it never came to his hand they transmitted to him by mail another for the same amount. This he presented at the International Bank day before yesterday, when he was informed that the previous duplicate had just been cashed by them a few minutes before. Upon inquiry it was found that the individual for whom the duplicate had been cashed, was Hollis White, Esq., and that he had purchased it from some man that he did not know. The draft bore Mr. Young's endorsement, the signature having been forged, and Mr. White, of course, thought it all right. Some one had obtained the letter containing the draft from the Post Office by mistake, and was villain enough to turn the mistake to account. The police are now trying to find out who sold it to Mr. White, or who obtained it from the Post Office.—Buffalo Express, Aug. 4th.

THE WEATHER, CROPS, &C.—The excessive dry, hot weather during the entire month of July, was beginning to make visible effects on the crops of corn and potatoes in some locations in our valley; but the copious showers of last Saturday, have changed the face of nature decidedly. Everything of a vegetable kind has renewed its vigor, and is now growing rapidly. Our present prospects of corn, potatoes and all vegetables have never looked more promising than at this time, and if the frost does not come at an earlier period than usual, all will be matured and harvested in good condition. Our extensive fields of wheat, both winter and spring, are nearly all harvested, and a most beautiful crop it is, both as to quantity and quality. A considerable quantity of new wheat has already been brought to our mill, and ground into snow like flour, sweet and free from rust, or other deteriorating mixtures.—Sparta Herald, 4th.

Religious Intelligence.

There are fifty-nine churches in New Orleans: forty Protestant and nineteen Catholic. Of the Protestant churches, fourteen are Methodist, nine Presbyterian, eight Episcopal and only two Baptist. Dr. PALMER'S church, Presbyterian, cost $192,000.

Mr. E H. BRODHEAD, of Milwaukee, has presented the Methodist Episcopal church in Brodhead with a fine toned bell, weighing 395 pounds.

THE REMARKABLE revival now in progress in Ireland, is exciting great interest in England and Scotland also. There is a prospect of a general revival throughout the United Kingdom. Union meetings are multiplying. The spirit of prayer seems to pervade most denominations; most are looking for great things, and according to their faith will it be unto them.

REV. PROF. KIDDER, of the Evanston Biblical Institute, has in preparation a book on Homilities, or Preaching adapted to the wants of Methodist preachers. There is hardly a good work in the language on this subject; the field is therefore open, and Dr. KIDDER'S sound sense and fine acquirements justify the hope of a successful book.

THE whole number of orthodox Congregational Churches in Massachusetts is 480; members 76,871, of which 25,000 are males. Additions in 1858—by profession 8,000, by letter 2,486; total 11,286. Removals in 1858—by death 1,171, by letter 2,411, by excommunication 78; total 3,660; net gain 7,625; which is to be diminished by 220 names dropped, which leaves 7,405 net gain. Baptisms—adults 3,902, infants 1,820; total 4,812. Sabbath Schools 495, members of Sabbath schools 79,510, being an increase of 6,000 over last year.

THE Century says that the average expense per annum to the members of the different denominations throughout the United States for the support of their different Church services, is estimated to be about as follows: A Baptist and Methodist, about $3 40; a Presbyterian, $6; a Congregationalist, $10; a Roman Catholic $15; a Reformed Dutch, $22; and a Unitarian $23.

DR. WEAKLEY.—We are pleased to learn from the Methodist Protestant, Springfield, Ohio, that the Female College of which Dr. Weakley of the Cincinnati Conference, is President, is in a prosperous condition. The doctor has had many years practical experience as an educator of youth, and stands high in his profession. The editor of the News and Journal says: "The Springfield Female College is an institution of which our city and community may well be proud. Dr. Weakley exhibits both taste and energy in the conduct of the second and the graduates show that they have acquired, in addition to scientific lore, practical and useful ideas of everyday life."

AMUSEMENTS DENOUNCED.—The Roman Catholic Bishop of Montreal has addressed a circular to his clergy, calling upon them, as soon as possible, to pronounce from their pulpits "a strong warning against the opera, the the theatre, circus and other amusements of a similar nature, which at the present moment are a real scandal to our city and country districts."

THE receipts of the American Board of Missions for the month of June were $28,205 53. These were donations—the legacies were $9,330 37. The total amount from August 1, 1858, to July 14, 1859, was $255,455 01.

THE number of local preachers in the Methodist Episcopal Church,, in the United States, (exclusive of the Church South) is 7,169, of which number 371 belong to the old Baltimore Conference, a higher number than is attached to any other conference. That of Illinois contains 330; Philadelphia, 308; Southern Illinois contains 306; New Jersey, 257.

REV. S. A. COREY'S Church (18th street, N. Y., Baptist) has been "chartered away," says the Chronicle, as they never owned it. After having occupied it under rental for the past year, they now find their strength sufficient to build, and are about to purchase lots in a suitable location, and hope soon to be occupying a house sufficient for their growing wants.

REV. DR. HOLDICH, one of the Secretaries of the American Bible Society, has sailed for England designing to confer with the British and Foreign Bible Society, and make himself thoroughly acquainted with the wants of the foreign field.

The Southern Methodist is the title of a new paper started in Macon, Ga., by James Stewart. It is "got up" in beautiful style, and its contents show much taste and a good spirit. What its position will be on special questions does not yet appear.

INDIA.—Rev. J. L. HUMPHREY writes from Bareilley, to the Christian Advocate & Journal, under date of May 14th:

We have many encouragements, thank God!

1. We have as good degree of strength as could be expected in this prostrating climate.

2. We are very much encouraged from the state of the native mind. A very intelligent Hindoo banker said to one of my catechists a few days ago: "As for Hindooism, we know it is all nonsense. What you say about God and Christ seems reasonable. There can be but one Saviour, and one way of salvation; and we know," he added, in presence of some thirty or forty wealthy bankers, "that the religion of Jesus is to prevail in India."

This people seem perfectly confounded at what they see and hear. Missions rising all about, and Christ preached with all boldness at every turn, and that so soon after such a demonstration as 1857 furnished.

The rebellion is just completely ended.—Khan Bahadur and Nana Sahib are yet abroad. They have though but very few followers with them. It is said only some few hundreds, and they in a most wretched condition.

The most skillful leader among the rebels was taken and hung a few days since.

Encouraged.—We are very much encouraged by the good things the Board has done for us. O how we long to hail our Brother and Sister Baume [illegible] We are expecting to see them within a couple of months.

The ship in which Brother Baume and his wife took passage for India was spoken April 20th. All well on board.

Brotherly Kindness.—We shall be the more glad to have them come, as we are four or five miles from the English residents, with no company on this side of the city but natives. We have some good friends in the station who come to see us occasionally, and speak kind words to us. The chaplain of the 42d Highlanders, Presbyterian, is a warm friend, and comes and spends a day with us.

A NEW MEANS OF GRACE.—The Buffalo Advocate says: "A New form of worship, as we have been informed, has just been inaugurated among the sect called Nazarites.—At the late Bergin Camp-meeting, dancing, as a separate exercise, was encouraged and practiced. Circles were formed within which a space was kept clear, and then outside that circle, quick step music was sung, and from one to four danced to regular time, as regular as in a ball room, bating the fact that the floor was rather rough. We cannot name all the tunes were sung, but an informant gives the names of two; they were, 'Yankee Doodle,' and 'Pop Goes the Weasel. We make no complaint, but simply state this as a matter of fact, which no one who was there will deny. This is an age of improvement, and the old methods of worship, by singing, talking, have become stale by use to these fast Christians. What the next movement will be we cannot tell, but will try to keep our readers posted."

THE NEW BISHOP OF MINNESOTA.—The Chicago Record thus cordially speaks of the Bishop-elect of Minnesota, and with authority, for Chicago is the place where he is best known:

It is with the most unbounded gratification that we take up our pen to inform the readers of the Record, that our beloved Brother, Rev. Henry B. Whipple, of this city, has been elected Bishop of Minnesota. If ever a new Diocese started right, Minnesota has done so. We conceive him to have peculiar qualifications for the exercise of this holy office in this Western Empire. In the prime of youthful manhood, a most thorough and uncompromising Churchman, devoted to the duties of the ministry, as gentle as a woman, and as firm as a rock, he seems to have been the very one especially fitted for the position to which he has been chosen with singular unanimity. Much as we love him in Chicago, and hard as his place will be to fill, we give him up to God's great Church cheerfully. If there is a man in the American Church better fitted for the position of a Pioneer Bishop in a great State on our frontier, we never saw him.—That the Church will march forward to large conquests, under God's blessing, upon his energetic administration in Minnesota no one will doubt. Many prayers will accompany and follow him to his new field of labor."

THE new Methodist Episcopal Church in this city will be dedicated on next Sabbath, 7th inst., by Bishop E. R. Ames of Chicago. Services to commence at 10 A. M.—Green Bay Advocate.

The Christian Advocate says:

We have some items in a letter before us which will be of interest to the General Church:

1. A duty has to be paid on Danish Bibles imported from America into Norway of ten cents per pound. The book weighs about two pounds. The British Bible Society have the privilege of sending their Danish Bibles into Norway free of duty, or to have them printed in Norway on their account.

2. In Denmark it is forbidden to import Danish Bibles, or to copy and print them there. The penalty exacted in the case of violation of this law is the confiscation of the Bibles and a fine of 2000 rix dollars.

Vulgar and obscene books may be imported or re-printed without any fine!

3. The Rev. George Scott paid a visit to one of our societies in Norway lately, on his way to Stockholm, Sweden, and preached in the Methodist Church in Sarpsborg to a very large congregation, surprising the people, with his familiar acquaintance with their native language. Brother Bergeur, of the Bethel Ship, had also been among them, happy and useful.

TWO WONDERS.—Some good man has said: "Two things are matter of daily astonishment to me—The readiness of Christ to come from heaven to earth for me, and my backwardness to rise from earth to heaven for him."

State of Italy at the Latest Dates.

The Tuscan Monitore publishes a decree by the Provisional Government, enacting that representatives of the people are to be elected, for the purpose of deciding, by a majority of votes, what the future Government of the country shall be.

A Paris letter says, news had reached there that eighty-five municipalities in Tuscany, had already met and proclaimed their design to offer armed resistance to the reintrusion of the late dynasty. Sierra, Pisa, Lucca, Pestoria and Arezzo had pronounced in this direction. As for Leghorn, the commotion has become so formidable, that Gonfaliere Bucossi had to declare in a proclamation to the towns-people, that he held himself personally responsible to them for the non-return of the Austrian Arch Duke.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says: In reply to the Provisional Government of Tuscany, the Emperor Napoleon states that he did not desire to force the Grand Duke upon them. The French Government organ, the Pays, says the question remains to be regulated. No one says that Piedmont is not to get a good share of them. The populations will be assuredly consulted. The rulers of these small States have not governed them so as to make themselves indispensable.

A letter from Genera says: The Milanese, notwithstanding annexation, desire to have a flag distinct from the Piedmontese.

The absence of all tidings of Garibaldi's forces, causes some surprise.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times gives a report that the treaty of peace contains a clause preventing any intervention in Italy in future, either on the part of Austria or France.

A letter from Rome says the French troops were to be sent to Rimini and Ancona, in order to prevent revolutionary movements.

Critical Condition of Things in the Papal States.

The Rome correspondent of the London Times, writing on the 16th ult., says:

The preservation of the Romagna for the Pope, seems to be very problematical, unless he can recover it with his own troops, which the Papal Government is attempting to do with much zeal. The troops of the Church have been assembled, and are increased daily as some say to meet the armed force expected from Bologna to avenge the ferocities of Perugia. Others say they are destined to march upon the Romagna, notwithstanding the intimation said to have been given by the Ambassador of France to Cardinal Antonelli, that those provinces must be regarded as lost, and that neither France nor Austria can interfere to reconquer them. It is a positive fact that Monsignor Bella, delegate at Pezaro, is fortifying that city with barricades, cannon and earthworks. Hence there is a general consternation among the inhabitants of the Romagna, and every one fears for the Papal States a bloody crisis in passing from the actual state to that which appears to be reserved for them by the peace lately signed.

INTERVIEW BETWEEN CAVOUR AND NAPOLEON.—The Paris correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says: Although never were measures against the French Press more oppressive or vexatious than they are now, yet some how or other all Paris is familiar with what the Emperor is resolved to shall ignore. At this moment the public is very generally aware of what passed at Milan. On Louis Napoleon's entrance into Paris the population was not taken in. It knows that the Italians are frenzied with rage. It knows that in Milan, the Emperor was hooted and hissed, and that flags and emblems of the French Alliance were torn down, and trampled upon along his passage; that at Turin it was only by the utmost efforts on the part of the Government, and military, that excessive insult was spared the ex-life-rater of Italy.

These things are generally known, but what is less so, is the following for which I am enabled to vouch: When after the peace, Count Cavour found himself for the first time, face to face with the Emperor and King, he found it impossible to remain within bounds of etiquette, and his indignation burst violently forth, so violently that at length Louis Napoleon, under control as he usually is, lost temper in turn, and threatened. The word arrest escaped his lips, at which the betrayed Piedmontese Minister turned round saying: "Arrest me? try it: but you would not dare, for you would then have no choice left you, but to go back to France through the Tyrol."

The military spectacle, got up not three weeks ago by order, in the theaters and on the line of the boulevards, and intended to excite national enthusiasm, are now forbid, by order also, because what they set forth is too ridiculously at variance with the situation of relations between Sardinia and Austria.

GARIBALDI AND HIS CORPS.—A letter from Milan of the 15th, in the Nord, says:

I am able to communicate to you some details relative to Garibaldi and his corps d'armee. You may readily imagine that the conclusion of peace had excited some apprehension as to the course which the corps would pursue. I have always thought that the soldiers of Garibaldi would stifle the grief which the separation of Venetia must have excited in their ardent minds, and that they would respect military discipline, which has always been exemplary among them. This is the case. On the arrival of the news of the peace, Gen. Garibaldi assembled his soldiers, and after having calmed their excitement by a noble address, he requested them to renew the oath of fidelity to the King, which they did without opposition. This conduct, which reflects honor on all concerned in it, will prove to Europe that the pretended revolutionary element in Italy fully comprehends the importance of concord. It is worthy of remark that among the volunteers of Garibaldi, there are a great number of young men belonging to Venetia.

VICTOR EMANUEL AND THE POPE.—A correspondent of the Evening Post, writing from Rome, represents that the wrath of the Pope is very great against the King of Sardinia—so much so that a bull of excommunication should not be unexpected. The Sardinian government, the writer says, instilles itself by the necessities of the case and the disturbed state of the country, for having sent a battalion of riflemen and a detachment of cavalry to occupy some points on the frontier; but Pio Nino looks upon the conduct of the King with such severity, that he is said to have been only withheld from the fulmination of the major excommunication upon his devoted head by the request of the Emperor Napoleon, and the remonstrances of Cardinal Antonelli, who ventured to suggest that such a step had not been taken in forma since the middle ages, and even Napoleon I. had escaped such an awful chastisement. The Pope relented in consequence.

TEPEDOTAH BURNED.—This town was nearly destroyed on Saturday night, the 23d inst. A large hotel building, two stories high, an excellent saw mill, which cost about $15,000, the store and residence of S. C. Tennis, and three dwellings, were burned to the ground. The fire was undoubtedly the work of incendiaries. The loss cannot be less than $25,000.—Reed's Landing Herald.

ALF. BURNET'S ENTERTAINMENT LAST EVENING.—A very respectable audience assembled last evening, to hear and witness ALF. BURNET'S recitations and delineations. At half past eight he appeared on the platform and proceeded to give a short introductory upon elocution. His appearance is prepossessing, and if not decidedly handsome, is at least poetic. The rapidity with which he changes the expression of his mobile features, from the grave to the ridiculous, is, to say the least of it, wonderful. His reading of Mrs. NORTON'S beautiful "Bingen on the Rhine,"

"A soldier of the legion lay dying in Algiers,
There was a lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of Woman's tears," was an exquisite piece of elocution. And Miss EAGER'S "Will the New Year come tonight, Mamma?" brought tears into the eyes of many in the audience.

Mr. BURNET possesses the highest talents, and his rendition last evening will never be forgotten by those who were present at Albany Hall. Seldom, indeed, have we seen an audience swayed so swiftly from tears to boisterous mirth, or held so breathless during the reading of a poem.

It is with great pleasure that we are able to announce that Mr. BURNET, at the urgent request of many citizens, will read this evening the exquisite poem of Daniel Gray, which appeared in the August No. of the Atlantic Monthly. It is one of the gems of modern poetry, and we do not hesitate to say, from what we have heard and seen of Mr. BURNET, that he will do it entire justice.

MEETING OF THE MUSICAL SOCIETY.—A general meeting of the Milwaukee Musical Society was held on Thursday evening, CALEB WALL, Vice President in the Chair. A Committee of three, which was appointed in May last, to investigate the financial affairs of the Association since its start, and report the result to the General Meeting, finished their task last evening, by reading their report.—From the report it appears that about the years 1856 and 1857, the Society was in a prosperous condition; a surplus fund of $2,000 was created. Hard times, however, then set in; the "Magic Flute" was performed, which did not pay expenses by some $500; and the surplus fund of $2,000 has now dwindled down to about $500. The report of the committee closed with a few propositions, presented for the consideration of the meeting. The first was—that the surplus fund of $500 shall not be touched for the purpose of defraying any ordinary expense, without the consent of the General Meeting.

Mr. WALL read a proposition of the proprietors of Albany Hall, in relation to the erection of a stage in that hall. After some discussion the Chair was authorized to appoint a Committee of three, who should take the proposition into consideration. At a late hour the Society adjourned to meet last evening.

AUBURN must be favored with porcine animals as extensively as this much abused City. The Daily Advertiser, under the influence of popular sentiment, no doubt, gets off the following

BOGGREL.

(We have often read haggard rhyme, but the following is the first specimen of boggrel we remember ever to have seen.)

On James Street, after ten o'clock,
The people sleep as sound's a rock,
And every dog or crowing cock
Are dozing very quietly.

The James Street fokes the other night
Were dressed with care in bright
That ever since both black and white
They tremble very mightily.

'Twas just as midnight had been tolled
A dreadful sound around them rolled.
And drove them into the cold
A screaming very awfully.

Murder! fire, and thieves and all,
Pistols 'n' knives, and powder 'n' ball,
Women 'n children 'n such a squall,
Oh! it was very terrible!

There stood a man, almost 'n a fit,
A shouting something he didn't hit,
He said 'twas burglars, but it wasn't a bit
But a hog a scratching itself lazily.

FIRE IN MAIN STREET.—The alarm at 11 1-2 A. M. yesterday, was caused by the burning of a frame house in Main street, 3d Ward, a few doors below Chicago street, occupied and owned by J. MCLINDEN. It was called the "Farmer's Inn." The fire originated in the back shed of the north tenement, which was entirely consumed. The roof took fire from the shed, and the flames were spreading rapidly when No. 6 got a stream on them. The fire was extinguished in an incredibly short space of time, and the neighborhood has cause to be thankful that a couple of large cisterns, conveniently opposite, supplied the firemen with the necessary fluid.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention will be held at the City of Madison, in the Assembly Hall of the Capitol on Wednesday, the 31st day of August next, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for State officers to be supported by the party at the ensuing general election; and to transact any other business that may properly come before it.

As the subject of selecting delegates to the next National Convention may be entertained and acted on by the Convention, it is suggested that the people in their primary canceuses, and the district conventions make such expression as will intimate to their delegates and the State Convention, the general sentiment of the State on that subject.

Each Assembly District will be entitled to two delegates in the Convention.

It is recommended that District Conventions for the selection of delegates be held throughout the State, on or before the 28th day of August, and that committees make early calls for that purpose; and it is especially urged that every district be duly represented in the Convention.

The Sentinel and Col. Hart.

Col. Hart in his communication which we published a few days ago, stated that the Sentinel was responsible for the misfortunes of Mr. Richmond, and the Sentinel of course denies it, and further denies having published any of Mr. Richmond's productions. Has the Sentinel forgotten that Richmond's challenge was published in that paper, and by no other paper in this city? That was the commencement of the trouble, and the Sentinel is solely responsible for commencing it.—News of yesterday.

Another "weak assertion" of the News. The Sentinel did not deny "having published any of Mr. RICHMOND'S productions," and is no more "responsible for his misfortune" than the man in the moon. The News, "the COLONEL," and their sympathizing friend, and congenial correspondent, "HONEST-ASS," of Janesville, seem to be alike "cracked" on this subject.

MASS MEETING OF THE GERMAN DEMOCRACY.—A call for a mass meeting of the German Democracy, signed by Dr. HEUBSCHMANN, Dr. LUNING, the editors of all the German Democratic papers in our city, and other prominent German citizens, is published in the German papers. The meeting is to be held at Market Hall, on Monday evening next. The object of the meeting, as stated in the call, is the re-organization of the Democratic Party, our German Democratic fellow-citizens being exceedingly dissatisfied with its present condition, and very desirous of improving upon its organs, leaders, Central Committee, &c., &c.

WANTS TO KNOW.—The News affects great anxiety to know why the Sentinel did not publish the letter which Col. ARTHUR WELLINGTON HART says that he addressed to it, by request of the "editor and proprietors." We are happy to relieve the anxiety of the News on this important subject. The letter in question was not published:

1st. Because we did not think it a very happy specimen of Colonel ARTHUR WELLINGTON HART'S epistolary style; and

2nd. Because we were unwilling to deprive the News of the exclusive right and title to Col. ARTHUR WELLINGTON HART, as its New York correspondent.

WHAT'S IN THE WIND NOW?—A correspondent of the News, writing from Chicago, indulges in the following slant at Senator DOUGLAS:

Next topic in order and interest is, of course, politics. One here and there declares S. A. Douglas is the man for 1860. I know not your line of thinking, but believe you will agree with me, that we want one who, in sporting phrase, is housed in harness, knits square, and is not disposed to bolt the track. Is that the character of the before-mentioned gentleman—"with such a head?"

The News calls attention to and endorses the letter from which the above extract is taken. Is the News to turn another somersett?

A LIE WELL STUCK TO.—The News of yesterday, amongst sundry other fabrications, gives utterance to the following original one:

Last fall, when an old Whig was nominated for Sheriff, against Bade, the Sentinel supported Bade and the Free Democrat intimated that the nomination of Langworthy was one not fit to be made.

The paternity of this lie belongs exclusively to the News. We have once before branded it as such. There is not the slightest truth in the statement that "the Sentinel supported BADE for Sheriff." The cordial support of the Sentinel, and of all connected with it, was given to Mr. LANGWORTHY.

THE JANESVILLE GAZETTE.—We learn from a recent number of this excellent paper that Messrs. HIRAM BOWEN and DANIEL WILCOX have become associated with our old friend, correspondent and co-laborer in the Whig and Republican ranks, CHARLEY HOLT, in the publication of the Gazette. The editorial department of the paper will be under the charge of Messrs. HOLT and BOWEN, while Mr. WILCOX will take care of business matters. The paper is to be put in a new dress, and to be otherwise improved. The Janesville Gazette is one of the oldest and best papers published in Wisconsin. It has always been conducted with industry, ability, and great fairness, and is a fitting and creditable exponent of the same principles which prevail and flourish in old Rock County, the Garden of Wisconsin. We cordially wish the Gazette and its trio of proprietors—good fellows all—success and prosperity.

AN OPENING FOR THE "NEWS."—The News of yesterday enumerates sundry "unanswerable arguments" in favor of establishing a new Republican paper here, to combat the heresies of the Sentinel and Free Democrat. It strikes us that the News is just the one to undertake the job. Its own "occupation" will be gone as soon as the forthcoming Democratic organ appears, and it will be entirely at leasure, therefore, to try a new dodge. The change would be no surprise to its readers, since the News is "everything by turns and nothing long."

WAIT A WHILE.—We have two communications from Ozaukee, one from a Democrat, the other from a Republican, severely criticising the proposed nomination of LYON SILVERMAN as the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer. It will be quite time enough to discuss Mr. SILVERMAN'S qualifications for this office, after he has been fairly placed in the field. To do so beforehand, would be labor lost.

THE CALUMET REPUBLICAN is the name of a new sheet published at Gravesville, Calumet Co., Wisconsin, and of which J. N. STONE is Editor and Proprietor. The Republican—judging, from the first number, promises well, and we gladly welcome it to our exchange list.

PLYMOUTH ROCK CELEBRATION.—A grand celebration attended the laying of the corner stone of the monument on Plymouth Rock at Plymouth, Mass., on the 2d. It is estimated that about a quarter of a million of dollars must be collected to carry out the plans proposed. Of this sum $45,000 have already been subscribed.

ONE OF THE PARTIES engaged in raising the Russian ships sunk at Sebastopol writes to a friend in Boston in reference to the progress of the work:—"I have raised whole thirteen or fourteen steamers and vessels of various sizes, and broken to pieces and removed fourteen or fifteen more, and the work goes bravely on, and will continue to a successful completion."

SHOT.—A Prussian Colonel, having been suspected of forwarding plans of certain Prussian fortifications to the French government, has been tried by court-martial, condemned, and shot.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.—We are indebted to Senator DOOLITTLE for several valuable public documents.

A Trip Up the Mississippi.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

ST. PAUL, (Minn.) Aug. 1, '59.

MR. EDITOR:—Agreeable to promise, I will give you a little account of my trip up the Mississippi.

I suppose I am not the first man who has navigated the Mississippi, nor am I the first who has seen fit both to talk and write of the things new and marvelous which meet the eye of the traveler while winding his way upward, among these wild and picturesque regions. But every one has a taste of his own, heart of his own, and sensibilities of his own—therefore every one has a story of his own.

On arriving at Prairie du Chien, we left the cars and stepped aboard the fleet and elegant steamer Milwaukee, then in waiting at the landing, and found ourselves moving northward on the great "Father of Waters." The high waters of the river serve to heighten its grandeur. So great a volume of water, moving onward in its bold resistless tread, is indeed a most sublime spectacle. I believe I have no particular relationship to that class of minds which are always desperately essaying to extract poetry, romance and moonshine from every green bush, or babbling brook, yet as I sat upon deck watching the passing objects, I was made a passive recipient of the inspiration of these bold pictures, which, like gentle music, came flowing into my soul, filling it with emotions of beauty and sublimity, such as I have rarely before experienced. Well may poets sing and painters paint the beauties of the Mississippi scenery—but skillful must be that pen or brush that can give even a faint expression of the wild magnificence, and the intoxicating charms which, to the traveler's eye, like panoramic views, float along, one after another, ever changing, ever new, and ever inspiring. To a lover of natural scenery, a trip on the Upper Mississippi is certainly a most delicious treat. Many a shady dell, whose tall gigantic trees, forever mirror themselves in some quiet pool, or peaceful rivulet, needs only to be seen to be admired, and to be linked with the far-famed list of Nature's fairest spots.

All the native charms of many a Sunny Side and Idle Wild await only the poet's pen to interpret their sublime inspirations and make them rivals of those celebrated pictures which adorn the banks of the Hudson. Here and there the waters are dotted with little islands, densely loaded with verdure, seeming like huge boquets thrown down from the lofty cliffs above. On either bank an ever changing succession of bluffs appear; now and then receding back from the river bearing a broad level plat, as if with a special design of giving place for the village planted thereon, then again they approach and overhang the banks, rearing their menacing forms like sentry guards to this great liquid highway.

Our boat was well filled with passengers—several from Alabama—and judging from appearances, hilarity, loquacity, quickstep-promenades, waltzes, &c., I was but one of many, to enjoy these luxuries of the eye. I should judge from appearances, that most of the villages along the river, have, in common with many other places in the West, severely felt the paralyzing stroke of the hard times; many of them bear a corpse-like aspect. St. Paul was the first place I met, where I could really see and hear the life-pulse throb.

The river flood has made bad work with many villages; houses undermined and toppling over into the stream were frequent sights which attracted considerable attention from the passengers. Perhaps the object of the greatest curiosity, especially to the lady portion of our company, was the Maiden Rock. On approaching this, the ladies hustled out of the cabin with a rush. "Oh my," was the first ejaculation; then from a sort of instinctive sympathy, I suppose, with the luckless maiden whose sad story is associated with this spot, many an eye looked mournfully, and gazed dreamily upon the wild scene, until those eyes, like moons, had borrowed from the rock a flood of romance; therefore, I being short sighted contented myself in taking my romance second-hand, by gazing into those eyes. We passed numerous large lumber rafts, some of them near a quarter of a mile in length. At 11 o'clock in the evening we arrived at St. Paul, where I am now anchored. One of the items of interest here is the late arrival of a train of fur-traders. They presented a decidedly rural appearance. The train consisted of 50 or 60 small carts, each drawn by a single ox. The carts were built wholly of wood. The oxen were harnessed much after the fashion of a dray horse. They brought in a very large amount of furs. Over $60,000 worth were purchased by CULVER & FARRINGTON. St. Paul, in general, has the appearance of thrift and enterprise. Its externals I am much pleased with, but there is an another aspect which has led me to the conclusion that if the Great Apostle was still living, he would not feel himself particularly complimented, by having this place adopt his name. To-morrow I leave for Hudson, the land of speckled trout. MILWAUKEEAN.

The Wisconsin Female College.

The Fox Lake Gazette seems to think that the account given by our correspondent, NYM CRINKLE, of the Wisconsin Female College at Fox Lake, does injustice to that institution. We, therefore, copy with pleasure, what the Gazette says in reply:

In the Sentinel's issue of the 28th ult., appears a letter from Nym Crinkle, dated at Beaver Dam, July 26th, 1859, in which are given in condensed form, the items and impressions relative to Fox Lake. Some effort is made by the writer to bring forward and into comparison the two educational institutions, "Wayland University," and the "Wisconsin Female College," located respectively at Beaver Dam, and this place, to all of which we object not when done by one competent and unprejudiced. The interests of the two institutions fully harmonize, and if one is more fortunate in teachers than the other, it is the result of chance; there is and can be no issue between the institutions themselves; but in Mr. Crinkle's Epistle the Female College is noticed as declining, while the University is said to be prospering. The antithesis is too strong. We say nothing of the University, but the College is in better condition to-day than it was two years ago. It has more pupils, and a better,—more advanced class of pupils. The decline then is the creature of the correspondent's fertile brain—and seems to follow as a matter of course from an assertion, the truth of which we deny, and challenge Mr. Child to prove, that "Mr. Freeman, the President, is not liked by the pupils, and never was."

The publication of such assertions does injury to our place, and to the institution here located. We assure the Sentinel that its correspondent is mistaken; that the College may safely challenge comparison with any institution, and we refer the Sentinel to the appropriations of the Normal School Board,—to the Catalogue of the College lately published. We assure the Sentinel that Mr. Freeman is liked by the pupils, and always was; and we intimate to the Sentinel that its correspondent has made a private family misunderstanding, the occasion and subject of newspaper comment.

THE RICHMOND MARKET.—If the prices of wheat and Flour are still rather low, and Pork is declining, there is one market, at least, which is very firm and "tending upwards." This is the Slave market, at Richmond, the Capital of the "Old Dominion," as witness the following quotations from the Richmond Despatch:

No. 1 men. 20 to 26 years old, from $1450 to $1500; best grown girls, 17 to 20 years old, from $1275 to $1325; girls from 15 to 17 years old, $1150 to $1250; girls from 12 to 15 years old, $1000 to $1100; best plow boys, 17 to 20 years old, $1250 to $1375; boys from 12 to 15 years old, $1100 to $1200. Likely families, and also boys and girls, command high prices.

KOSSUTH.—The Birmingham Journal has learned from private information that M. Kossuth's family were preparing to proceed to Italy, and were to have departed on Saturday, but the news of the peace treaty arrested their preparations. On Thursday evening they received a telegram from M. Kossuth, announcing his safe arrival in Switzerland.—He thus seems to have lost no time in leaving Italy immediately on the news of the peace treaty, and so escaped a conference with the Emperor of Kaiser.

Let Us Pay Our Debts.

MILWAUKEE, Aug 1st, '59.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The enclosed extract from the Fourth of July Address by Judge MCARTHUR, which I have cut from the money article of the New York Tribune, is well worthy of republication and circulation through our State. All we now need to restore confidence in us and to again turn the attention of Eastern Capitalists to us, is the acknowledgement of our just debts and an effort to pay. Why cannot we now, in view of our coming heavy crops, take some action that will show our willingness to pay and thus save ourselves? I do not believe any one even dreams of repudiation, and if we did, it is a vain dream, for we cannot. Let us make a virtue of necessity, if of nothing else, and boldly and honestly "face the music." Please give us your influence in arousing the people to this vital issue. X.

An address by Judge McArthur, of Wisconsin, delivered before the people of Madison, the capital of the State, on the 4th inst., contains the following just and forcible remarks on the duty of the State and its people to foreign creditors. This eloquent and rightly directed argument is the more timely as, at present, nearly the entire Municipal and Farm Mortgage Debt, as the Railway Mortgages of the State, are in default, and few or no active steps being taken to remove the difficulty. It appears from the confession of this prominent citizen of Wisconsin that no system of railway work in the country has been so entirely built on means borrowed out of the State, as the roads which connect the lake ports of Wisconsin with the Mississippi River. Judge McA. says:

These are private contracts, but the case is widely different with the town and city securities given to assist the companies. These are public securities, which derive a sacred inviolability from the public faith and honor. With these there is but one course compatible with moral sense or justice, and that is, at any sacrifice, to make provision or the payment of the interest until the principal can be liquidated. No person, or at least very few, have dared to hint at the other alternative, which is repudiation. I do not believe the people of Wisconsin are prepared for this flagitious crime. But there are two methods of repudiating our just public debts, and both of them entail an equal inheritance of shame: one is by openly refusing to pay, and the other is by doing nothing to pay. A State can never settle its debts by repudiation.—Its obligations will live a perpetual disgrace, depriving us of all respect in the world and exiling us from consolation or credit with our neighbors. If we are told that the people of the towns and cities who have voluntarily voted their public credit will not and cannot bear the necessary taxation, let them be assured that if they fall into the putrid gulf of repudiation, they will have more grievious burdens to bear than high taxes. The scorn of mankind and the moral sense of the world will sink us into universal infamy.

This gigantic progress has been brought about by our railroads almost exclusively, and in building them probably quite thirty or forty millions of dollars had been borrowed and used in their construction. I have been informed by persons familiar with our railroad statistics, that not more than two hundred thousand dollars in cash have been paid by our citizens toward the cost of our railroads, so that almost the total outlay for their construction has been borrowed out of the State and paid in hard cash by foreign capitalists, who have derived no benefit from their investment, and whose unpaid coupons and forfeited bonds are melancholy proofs of their valuelessness. There is a fact connected with this subject, of the utmost importance to the credit and honor of Wisconsin. Experience has proved that the roads are less productive than was anticipated, and the companies have failed to protect their mortgages, and have exposed the municipalities, who guaranteed their bonds to the demands of the holders.

When the roads were built the money was not in the State; it must come from abroad and be obtained upon such securities as we could give. Under these circumstances the farm mortgages were executed. Their validity is now called in question; and the legal points which they involve will be adjudicated by the authoritative tribunals of the State.—But it may be properly hoped that the diffusion of so much prosperity produced by the investments which they were intended to secure, and in view of the stupendous benefits which they have been the means of showering upon us, the principles of jurisprudence will harmonize with the dictates of justice, protecting the interests of the parties according to the just provisions of their undertaking.

The benefits derived from the loans exceed even in material wealth a thousand fold the amount that would be sufficient to save our credit and character, and but a tithe of what we have already realized would amply enable us to pay the interest as it falls due. It is easy to lose our reputation, and extremely difficult to regain it. A little self-sacrifice and self-denial at the proper time will preserve us from degradation. No one ever lost a character but he regretted in the bitterness of despair that he had not resorted to the means of retaining it. So with States. It is needless to say that only those municipalities will be blighted who have proved recreant. The world regards a State or community in the concrete, and no pause is made to discriminate the members from the whole.

When a public crime is committed, in public judgment the condemnation extends to the entire body. The public faith is in the keeping of the whole community. The character of the State is its noblest treasure, and no man with self-respect will desire to come here unless that character is good.

Whenever the brand of direliction from good faith is stigmatized a State, that state has always been outlawed as a traitress to her sister communities, and shunned in their common intercourse long after the original cause of condemnation had been fully expiated. Mississippi earned not only the scorn of all honest men, but the indignation of every honorable State in the Union. The mere suspicion that attached to Pennsylvania will not be forgotten until we cease to blush. On the other hand, a faithful observance of foreign and domestic pledges has ever upheld the credit of nations abroad, and silenced anarchy at home.

BATHING AT NEWPORT.—The Newport correspondent of the Providence Journal predicts a lively season at Newport. BANCROFT is at his residence on the Avenue, and TUCKERMAN is at the Atlantic, with many others well known to the world. The writer gives the following general description of a bathing scene:

The bathing this season is charming, and hundreds, thousands relish and enjoy it.—From morning till night the bathers are seen in the surf, for which they have the strongest attachment. The early morning is given to servants; invalids and those who think a dip will do them good appear on the sands at a somewhat later hour, and by eleven o'clock the fashionable crowd take possession of the little boxes, called by courtesy bathing-houses, into which many fair forms enter, to come forth strangely disguised and in most unique apparel.

The hair is protected by a cap of oil silk; a coarse chip hat, bound with red carpet binding, answers for a covering for the head; the sack is of some grave or sombre color, slashed with something lighter; the bloomer pants are of red flannel, and the feet are left bare—or should be—for comfort and convenience. Think of several hundred of these fair ones, some of them with forms that Helen might have envied, dancing in the surf and toying with the breakers, which clasp them in their rude embrace as they rush on to the shore, where, dying for very joy and pleasure, they murmur still an unending song of love and tenderness.

THE ITALIAN CONFEDERATION.—The new Confederation, which the sword of Napoleon has carved out, and reconstructed into an Empire, will consist of:

	Population.
Sardinia, Continental,	4,605,180
" The Island,	547,995
Milanese Lombardy,	2,725,740
	7,541,725
Parma Duchy	502,542
Modena Duchy	603,188
Tuscany, Grand Duchy	1,178,062
Austria Venice	2,251,332
Popedom	2,356,115
Naples,	6,612,262
Sicily,	2,291,569
	23,503,962

There are besides, Monaco, a little principality of 6,3000 inhabitants; San Marino, a republic of 7,600 people; Corsica, belonging to France, of 236,251 inhabitants; and Malta, which is garrisoned by English troops, and has 128,270 inhabitants.

THE following straws from the Berlin Courant ought to tell which way the wind blows:

HOW YOU TALK!—The Ripon Star thinks "Nym Crinkle" is a green boy. He may be, and we rather think he is, considerable of a "boy," but don't think his greenness sticks out very far, if we may judge from his readable letters which have appeared in the Sentinel. When Mr. Mapes has seen one tenth part as much of the world as "Nym" has traveled over, and made as good use of his eyes, it will do better for him to put on airs.

THE Wisconsin is well printed, and of late seems to have quite an attraction for loafers; but unlike the Free Democrat and Sentinel, it is not indispensable by any means. Good bye if you say so.

Report of Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart., to the London Committee of Deputies of the British Jews on the Subject of his Mission to Rome in the Mortara Case.

I was informed on the 12th of April, by Mr. Odo Russell, that, in an interview he had had with the Cardinal Antonelli, his Eminence declined to enter upon the subject, stating that it was "a closed question," and he was referred by his eminence to Monsignor Pacca, the "Papal Mastero di Camera," or to Monsignor Talbot, to obtain an audience for me of his Holiness; but his Eminence added, he thought it would be difficult at that moment. Mr. Russell next applied to Monsignor Talbot, who assured him that the only possible course was that I should myself apply in writing or in person to the Maestro di Camera, Monsignor Pacca, who resided at the Vatican. Monsignor Talbot thought the Pope would receive me, but he also considered the question closed. Mr. Russell, in a letter communicating this intelligence to me, says: "I fear you were but too right in saying that our only hope now rests with that great God, whose most holy laws have, in this melancholy case, been violated by the hand of man."

Ultimately, on the 26th of April last, I received a letter from Mr. Odo Russell, which is so important an evidence of his friendly zeal and active co-operation, and also emphatically corroborating my assurance that every means within my power were used to present personally the memorial to the Sovereign Pontiff, that I feel it a duty towards Mr. Russell and an act of justice towards myself to transcribe for your information the letter in question:

ROME, Tuesday, April 26, '59.

DEAR SIR MOSES MONTEFIORE:—Easter week being over, I inquired at the Vatican when you were likely to obtain the audience of His Holiness you had applied for. To my sincere disappointment, I am informed that the Pope would not receive you: His Holiness could not admit of any discussion of the Mortara case; it was a "closed question" and it was hopeless to expect an answer to your written application to the Maestro di Camera, since it was not usual at the Vatican to answer such applications when the favor solicited could not be granted.

I therefore went at once to the Cardinal Secretary of State, and discussed the matter at length with him; it is useless to enter into all that passed between us; suffice it to say His Eminence confirmed the above statement, and all that I could obtain was a declaration on his part that he would receive his memorial of which you are the bearer from your own hands, and present it himself to the Pope. This was the course he assumed in that had been followed on former occasions, and would therefore expect you at the Vatican on Thursday next, the 28th instant, at 12 o'clock. His Eminence wished me to accompany you, and if you wish it also, and that the day and hour suit your convenience, I need not say that I am entirely at your orders.

I firmly believe that you have done all in your power to forward the object you have most at heart, and that nothing further can be obtained at present than the acceptance of your memorial by Cardinal Antonelli who will present it to the Pope. Believe me, dear Sir Moses Montefiore yours sincerely,

ODO RUSSELL.

Sir MOSES MONTEFIORE, Bart., &c.

Accordingly on Thursday, the 28th of April, accompanied by Mr. Odo Russell, I proceeded to the Vatican, at about 12 o'clock at noon, and was received with great courtesy by His Eminence Cardinal Antonelli. I said to his Eminence that I had hoped to have been enabled to present the memorial of my co-religionists in England respecting the boy Mortara to the Sovereign Pontiff in person; but having been informed that His Eminence declined to counsel my enjoying that privilege, and as I had failed to obtain an audience through the application made in writing to Monsignor Pacca, (the Maestro di Camera,) I now begged His Eminence to convey the memorial to the Sovereign Pontiff, and I added that I would stay seven days longer in Rome, in the hopeful expectation of a favorable reply. The Cardinal received the memorial from my hands, and undertook to present it to the Sovereign Pontiff, stating that he had presented to His Holiness similar memorials from Holland, Germany and other countries. He considered the Mortara case a most unfortunate one, but as the child (as His Eminence alleged) had been baptised, it would be contrary to the laws of the Holy See to allow it to return to its parents without that religious education to which it was entitled as a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

He stated, further, that when the boy was old enough, 17 or 18 years of age, he would be set at liberty, and allowed to follow his own judgment; until then he would remain in a college at Rome, where he was being educated; that the parents could have access to him when they pleased, and so could anybody who wished to see and speak to him.—I then urged on His Eminence that the fact of baptism had not been satisfactorily proved, and that a further investigation of the case might, and I believe would, lead His Holiness to a different conclusion to that at which he had arrived. His Eminence replied that the question had been fully discussed with the French ambassador: "it was now closed," and therefore I must not expect an answer from the Sovereign Pontiff, who could only repeat what he had said to the Duke de Grammont. In the course of conversation, Cardinal Antonelli expressed his satisfaction with the Israelites residing in the Papal States, and his anxiety for their welfare; and His Eminence referred to a recent incident as a proof of the desire of the Papal authorities not to take undue advantage in cases of conversion. He stated that a young girl of the Jewish faith, at Ancona, had a few days since expressed her wish to be baptised; and, in consequence, she was sent to Rome for the purpose of testing her faith and the earnestness of her request; but, after a short examination, it was discovered that her sole object was to marry a young Christian, which she could only do as a member of the Roman Catholic Church. Therefore, baptism was denied her, and she was sent back to her parents at Ancona.

On my taking leave of the Cardinal, His Eminence renewed his assurance of good will towards the Israelite subjects of the Pope, and his readiness to improve their condition, so long as it could be done without interfering with the established laws of the Holy See.—Most ardently do I hope that these assurances may ere long be fulfilled; I regret, however, to say that the actual present condition of the Jews of Rome is most deplorable.

I have been desirous to recapitulate as fully as practicable the particulars of my interesting interview with Cardinal Antonelli, so that I might be enabled to lay before you in authentic shape the important fact that although I failed to present the memorial to the Sovereign Pontiff in person, yet, by placing it in the hands of Cardinal Antonelli (the Cardinal Secretary of State) I had done all that under the circumstances could be accomplished.

You will observe that my interview with Cardinal Antonelli took place on Thursday, the 28th of April, and that I informed His Eminence that I would remain at Rome seven days, in the hope of receiving a favorable reply to the memorial. Unwilling to abandon all hope, I protracted my stay beyond that time, as I did not leave Rome until Tuesday, the 10th of May, being twelve days after my attendance at the Vatican.

While at Rome I had the pleasure of a personal interview with His Excellence the Duke de Grammont, the French Ambassador. It is highly gratifying to me to be enabled to assure you that the great influence of His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French, aided by the eloquent zeal of His Excellency, had been exerted, though unhappily in vain, to induce the Sovereign Pontiff to restore the abducted child Mortara to its afflicted parents.

During my stay in Paris, on my return from Rome, I solicited and obtained an audience of Count Walewski, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, to whom I expressed my acknowledgments for the influential and friendly intervention of the Emperor of the French in his unhappy case, and I urgently entreated that, in the event of any favorable opportunity occurring, His Imperial Majesty's Government would renew its benevolent interposition.

I am truly pleased to avail myself of this occasion to express my grateful thanks to the Earl of Malmesbury and to Mr. Fitzgerald for their important assistance; to Lord John Russell, for a letter of introduction to his relative, Mr. Odo Russell, Bart., for their active co-operation in the cause; and to Viscount Stratford de Radcliffe, who was residing at Rome during my sojourn in that city, from whose friendly and valuable offices I derived great advantage.

I may also mention that whilst I was at Rome I received from many influential and esteemed friends, both of the Catholic and Protestant faith, encouraging assurances of sympathy.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your faithful servant, MOSES MONTEFIORE.

FIRE AT OCONTO.—Just as we go to press (Wednesday eve.) we learn that a severe fire occurred at Oconto, between 1 and 2 o'clock this Wednesday, morning. Three buildings were consumed, viz: A storeowned by Wm. Brunquest, and occupied by Mr. Spencer, goods partly saved. The other two buildings were occupied as a Cabinet, barber and tailor shops and daguerrian rooms, the contents of which were all destroyed. It is the opinion of many that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The loss falls principally upon poor men.—Green Bay Ad.

How Murder has been Rewarded in Kansas.

From the Report of the Kansas Legislative Committee.

Although not within our province, we may be excused for stating that from the most reliable information that we have been able to gather, by the recent warfare of the guerilla system, and in well known encounters, the number of lives sacrificed in Kansas, during the period mentioned, probably exceeded rather than fell short of two hundred! Many affairs in which life was sacrificed (on either side) were kept secret, and the particulars are only known to the participants. The guerillas, from motives of policy, seldom made known the result of their operations. But the number of missing persons, and the letters of inquiry for individuals, addressed so frequently from all parts of the Union to citizens of Kansas, have a meaning and significance not to be mistaken.

The history of Kansas is not simply a history of outrage and wrong. It is a history of Executive combination with lawless ruffians and cold-blooded murderers. In other countries and in other times, assassins and assassinations have been recognized as essential to the triumph of despotism and usurpation. And occasionally assassins have had position and possessions conferred upon them as the reward of their labors. But these things have been hitherto identified with the lawlessness of the dark ages or the sans culottism of the French revolution. It remained for the present day and the present Democratic Administration to revive the terrorism of the past, and openly reward assassination. The history of Kansas reveals these facts:

S. W. Clark murdered a man named Barber, by shooting him in the back. For this practical illustration of modern Democracy, he was made a Purser in the Navy!

James Gardner, who co-operated with Clark in the murder of Barber, was appointed Postmaster of Lawrence!

One Jones headed the mob which sacked Lawrence. He was paid off by being given a lucrative office in New Mexico!

Frederick Emery, one of the murderers of Phillips, at Leavenworth, was compensated by the appointment of Receiver of the Land Office at Ogden!

J. S. Murphy, who helped in the assassination of Phillips, and who was notoriously one of the gang by whom Hopps was spirited, was made Agent for the Pottawattamie Indians!

Rush Elmore, who made a persevering effort to assassinate J. H. Kagi, was elevated to the office of U. S. District Judge!

Russell and Waddell furnished teams and provisions to the Border Ruffians who invaded Kansas and seized the ballot boxes in 1856. For this, they have been given immense contracts by the Government!

Other assassins and ruffians have been the recipients of Executive favor; while the people of Kansas have been compelled to achieve their rights against the combined efforts of the Government and its murderous agents!—Albany Evening Journal.

NAPOLEON'S DESIGNS.—Nobody seems to understand the real designs of Napoleon. The English people, especially, are not only puzzled, but evidently are apprehending some sudden blow from the French Emperor. The Hamilton (C. W.) Spectator publishes the following extracts from a private letter from a gentleman in England:

"People have not much confidence in it, (the peace,) and I fear we must look for very much worse troubles in Europe. The next phase will probably be revolutionary. It is strange that such men as Count Cavour, Kossuth and Garibaldi should have been so duped by Louis Napoleon. Count Cavour resigned at once; it is said Garibaldi will not throw down his arms, and no doubt Koseuth will also give trouble. I think there can be no doubt that the deep game of Napoleon is to make the government of the Pope perfectly unbearable, and he will then say to the people and clergy of the Papal Church, "elect your own head," and of course he will be the man."

In corroboration of this, the writer of the letter we are quoting from says:

"A very striking book has been lately published by M. About: La Question Romaine. He is a very clever man, and was sent to Rome by Louis Napoleon, who, it is understood, corrected every line of the book. He proves the weakness of the Romish Government, and sums up his argument thus:—

The Head of the English Church is the Queen in England; the head of the Greek Church is the Emperor at St. Petersburgh; and it must be quite evident that the head of the Western Church should be in Paris."

PILES IN BOTH FORMS CURED—READ THIS.—"It can only account for my present sound health from the constant, though moderate use of BERRIAN'S HOLLAND BITTERS—having from my youth suffered, at intervals, from Piles, in both forms, sometimes so severe as to completely prostrate me. I have for several months past, though subject to loss of sleep, and unusual physical effort, been entirely free from any symptom of this distressing disease; while my general health is very much improved."

Persons doubting the authenticity of this certificate, are requested to call upon or communicate with the proprietors. They will take pleasure not only in referring them to its author, but to many others who have used the Holland Bitters for the same affection, with equal success.

THE BEAUTIFUL.

BY EDWIN HENRY BURRINGTON.

Walk with the Beautiful and with the Grand,
Let nothing on the earth thy feet deter;
Sorrow may lead thee weeping by the hand,
But give not all thy bosom-thoughts to her:
Walk with the Beautiful!

I hear thee say, "The Beautiful! what is it?"
O, thou art darkly ignorant! be sure
'Tis no long weary road its form to visit,
For thou canst make it smile beside thy door:
Then love the Beautiful!

Ay, love it; 'tis a sister that will bless,
And teach thee patience when the heart is lonely;
The Angels love it, for they wear the dress,
And thou art made a little lower only:
Then love the Beautiful!

Sigh for it!—clasp it when 'tis in thy way!
Be its idolator, as of a maiden!
Thy parents bent to it, and more than they;
Be thou its worshipper. Another Eden
Comes with the Beautiful!

Some boast its presence in a Grecian face;
Some, on a favorite warbler of the skies;
But be not fooled! wherever thine eye might trace,
Seeking the Beautiful, it will arise:
Then seek it everywhere.

Thy bosom is its mint, the workmen are
Thy thoughts, and they will coin for thee: believing
The Beautiful exists in every mind,
Then imitest it so, and art thyself deceiving
If otherwise thy faith.

Then seest Beauty in the violet's cup;
I'll teach thee miracles! Walk on this heath,
And say to the neglected flowers, "Look up
And be thou Beautiful!" If thou hast faith
It will obey thy word.

One thing I warn thee: bow no knee to gold,
Love innocent females the guileless tongue,
It turns the feelings prematurely old;
And they who keep their best affections young,
Best love the Beautiful!

A Hospital Hero.

It was a cold night in December, and the wind blew along the slushy London streets; the blazing lights in the butchers' shops of Clare Market waved about like infernal banners. The policemen stood stiffly up in the doorways for shelter; and we, who were snugly ensconced in the house-surgeon's room of old St. Barnabas, were perhaps the only people perfectly comfortable in the parish of St. Clement Danes. Our party consisted of Brown (we'll call him Brown), of myself, and a small thin man called Jourdan. How small and fragile he looked as he sat on the arm of the old horsehair sofa discussing with Brown and myself a question in physiology. How red the spots grew over his cheekbones; and how his cough rattled as he called Muller, and Schroeder van der Kolk to witness that he was right, and we two signally and miserably wrong.

"Well, so be it," said I at last. "How the wind howls. It must matter but little to those poor neighbors of ours, under the Adelphi arches whether their sensory nerve-fibres can be traced upward from the posterior columns of the cord or not. For my own part I don't believe a——"

"What!" shrieked Jourdan, "when Wagner has demonstrated that"——

"Oh, please Sir," said a nurse bouncing into the room, "that man in the Top-Ward has got out of bed, and is jumpin' mad."

"Well, make him go back again."

"I can't, Sir. He's got the crutch from the patient in the next bed, and I daren't go near him."

"Heigh-ho!" said Jourdan, "it's always thus in our profession. We just taste occasionally the sweets of scientific discussion, when we have to leave them for the disgusting practical applications."

Up stairs he went, past wards where the sufferers were most of them forgetting in sleep the distresses to which they would presently awake. All was quiet in the old hospital, save the howl of the wind and Jourdan's cough. "Confound the pedantic little chap," I thought to myself: "he'll waken that operation case." One more stair to the climb, and we reached the Top-Ward, where there was unusual excitement, the patients sitting up in their beds; the poor fellow with heart-disease, the dropsical patient, all watching a tall, stalwart figure standing in a flannel night-gown, with his back to the fire, leaning with his chin on a crutch, and evidently in deep thought. Directly he saw us, he shouldered the said piece of timber, if not to show how fields were won, to give as good a representation as circumstances would allow of how he intended winning the field on the present occasion. Whisk came the handle over my head as I ducked and escaped the blow.

"My good man," said Brown, "now, do go into bed. Is there anything I——"

Whisk came the crutch again over our heads; and as we ducked, the maniac leaped rapidly past us from bed to bed, gained the door, and ere we had time to intercept him, was in the passage.

In the ceiling of the passage just outside this door was a trap which led out upon the roof; it was not far from the floor. With the activity of madness he leaped, caught the edge of the trap, swung himself up, and was upon the roof. We looked at each other.

"Here's a business," says Brown; "he'll be down in the street in a twinkling, for he'll never stand against this wind."

"What a mess we shall get into!" was my selfish thought. We got a pair of steps and getting up them, put our heads out at the trap. The moon was shining bright, but the wind was shrieking through the old stacks of chimneys; and now and then a tile detached would slide down the roof and drop into the street,

"By Jove," says Brown, "he must have fallen; I can't see him anywhere. Let me look. Ah, there! Good Heavens! how could he have got there, right at the end of the pointed old roof, covered with slippery tiles?"

Across this, in the moonlight, we could see a long shadow, and what I at first took to be a chimney-stalk, was the madman, standing gazing on the moon. At each gust of the fierce wind his body swayed as though he would fall; but there he stood in all the sublimity and strength of mania, gazing at that planet whose supposed influence over such unfortunates as himself has given its name to the most awful of maladies. What could we do? The nurses, the porters were assembled at the foot of the steps. Our feelings of responsibility were intensely painful. An exclamation, a sudden noise, might send that poor wretch tumbling into the street. What were we to do? I felt something push by me on the steps, and then, for the first time, noticed that Jourdan had rejoined us. A paroxysm of coughing had kept him below stairs when Brown and I hurried into the ward. I saw his eyes sparkling, and heard his rough breathing as the little fellow said: "Hold these, and put a pair of half-Wellingtons into my hand." Was he mad, too, taking off his boots in such a place?

"Why, Jourdan, what——"

"Hush!" said he as he raised himself through the trap and stood on the roof. We now saw he was going to seize the madman.

The latter, as I have said, was a tall, stout man, in a state of acute mania; our friend was diminutive, and his naturally small frame was wasted by disease. He got on the sharp apex of the sloping roof; a blast of wind came, and down he went, but he caught something, raised himself, and walked along like one on a tight rope.

The madman does not seem to notice him. We watch them both, and our hearts beat not only with anxiety but shame. The possibility of such a feat had never before entered our own imaginations. Now he nears the maniac, who notices him, turns half-way round, and throws his arms up in defiance. But on Jourdan goes. Their shadows now mingle on the roof. The wind seems to howl louder, and our eyes less able to distinguish objects.

"Great Heaven! they're down," said Brown, squeezing my arm, as something rattled over the roof.

No—it was only a tile.

What are they doing? They are nearer us now—Jourdan walking warily backward, and leading the maniac, whom he has grasped by the breast of his night shirt. Still are these mad hands held out threateningly over the frail figure guiding him to safety. They reach the trap. Brown and I descend the steps so as to make room for this strange pair. Down they come. We seize the great mad arms, and pin them down, and put the man to bed.

We turn to look for Jourdan; he is quietly pulling on his boots again; and so we all return to the house-surgeon's room. I shall not trouble the reader with any moral reflections, which he may draw, as well as myself, from this little adventure. Poor Jourdan's brave spirit is now, I trust, where he obtains a clearer insight into those great truths he so enthusiastically investigated in his short and useful life. The patient whose life he saved was only suffering from temporary mental excitement, and is now a strong and useful man.

VETERANS AND VOLUNTEERS.—"I don't dread the enemy," said an old soldier "half so much as our brave volunteers who carry their rifles in so dangerous a manner."

ALEXANDER DUMAS has bought a yacht for 20,000 francs, and has got five friends to join him in a grand tour.

AN OLD CRIMINAL TRIAL.—The Boston Journal tells a good story of Wm. F. Goodwin, a prominent lawyer and antiquarian of Concord, N. H. Mr. G. has a great passion for old criminal trials, and in order to make a volume he had long been in search of, he wrote to a distinguished publishing house in New York for it. By due course of mail he received a letter informing him that the copy of the trial he desired had been sold, but they would procure another copy for him, and that their business was an extensive one both in this country and in Europe that the case of Jarvis was within a week past of any trial he might desire. Mr. G. having been placed in the same position several times by attempting to purchase catalogue books with the prices annexed, wrote back the following short but pithy note:

CONCORD, N. H., July 2, 1859.

MESSRS. ——:—Gentlemen:—Yours of the 30th of June is at hand. Be kind enough to procure for me, as soon as may be, one copy of the trial of the "two thieves," who were hanged, "one on the right hand, and the other on the left of our Savior when he was crucified," and very much oblige

Your obedient servant,
W. F. GOODWIN.

P. S.—B: very careful and get the edition that contains the indictment, for I have never been able to find out what those two rascals stole.

The above letter is to be preserved in the New York Historical Society Archives, and a dinner awaits the pleasure of the author.

FRIDAY, August 5, 1859.

Money Matters, &c.

The exchange market is working easier, but rates still remain unchanged, though there is some prospect of a reduction before long. At Chicago the price has receded to 2½ premium, and it is not unlikely that this movement will be followed by a slight decline here. The business demand for money is very moderate, and all the offerings of good paper continue to be taken by the regular houses at 10@12 cent. Brokers' rates range from 1 to 2 ₰ cent a month for money. Gold quiet at 2½ premium.

MONEY AFFAIRS AT CHICAGO.—The Press & Tribune of this morning says:

The day has been active in financial circles and at the banks, owing to the last payment of the first and fourth. We are glad to report that they were very generally met. The demand for exchange has been heavy to most eastern notes, and balances have been drawn down to a comparatively low figure; but as the principal "pay-day" is now over for the next month, a full may be anticipated. In addition to this the crop, which within the range of Chicago is large and safely gathered, must begin to move within the month, and lower rates must be realized. To-day they are firm at 2½ per cent premium.

Gold 2½. Discounts very easy for strictly business purposes at 10 per cent. Outside rates nominal at 10@2 per cent per month with few transactions.

Breadstuffs, &c.

Receipts.

	Flour, bbls.	Wheat, bus.	Oats, bus.	Corn, bus.	Barley, bus.	Rye, bus.
By M&Mis RR	103	1,155	926	....	126	....
By M&Min RR	1601	56	....	....	....	....
Total.....	103	1,241	926	....	126	....

To Buffalo.....	400	13,000	....	....	....	....
To Collingwood	....	559	....	....	....	....
Total.....	400	13,559	....	....	....	....

The wheat market opened at a decline of 3 to 5c this morning, something better than a thousand bushels of No. 1 spring changed hands at 85c in store. After the receipt of the New York report, however, buyers withdrew entirely, and the market closed very dull and unsettled, with strong indications of a still further and heavy decline. There was no extra club offering, and as to prices, we heard a prominent miller refuse to offer more than 75c for the best quality.

No sales of flour were made. Under the present state of eastern markets, $4 would be as high a figure, we think, as country spring extra would be likely to bring.

Oats were not so active, but unchanged. A small quantity of new Barley sold at a much lower price than was obtained for the same article yesterday, but we do not regard it as indicative of the market value of barley, as at present there is scarcely any demand for it and no established price. Corn remains inactive, but still quotable at 58@60c. Potatoes are becoming more plenty, and declining nearly as rapidly as they advanced. Some very nice new ones arrived from Chicago by the steamer Traveller, and another lot of some 300 bus. came in yesterday by Rail Road, from the same direction. Rye four dull at $4.25. Hides, butter and highwines unchanged.

CHICAGO, August 4th.—Receipts: 892 bbls flour, 4,736 bus wheat, 5,536 bus corn, 2,362 bus oats, 554 bus barley. Shipments: 1,926 bbls flour, and 7,100 bus wheat.

The operations in breadstuffs to-day were very light. There was a good demand for new winter wheat by millers and shippers, and prices ranged fully higher than yesterday. Spring wheat was also in demand. Changes were made at an advance of 1@1½c on yesterday's closing price; but after the receipt of the New York dispatches the market fell back and closed weak. About 12,000 bus of all grades changed hands at the following range of prices. New No. 1 white, $1.10 in store and $1.10½ delivered; new No. 1 red, $1.03@1.05 in store, and $1.06@1.08 on track; old No. 1 red, 98c in store; new spring 96@98c on track; old spring 98c delivered; old standard spring 98@99½c in store. The stock of good flour continues light, and there is a good city demand at $5.00@6.00 for winter and $3.75@4.00 for spring extras. Corn ruled steady at 40@41c. Oats 28c on yesterday. A market but closed dull after the New York dispatches were received. The Buffalo dispatches showed an advance of 3c, but later intelligence was rather unfavorable, and the market did not rally.

MILWAUKEE DAILY MARKET.

Friday—P. M.

FLOUR—Dull and nominally lower. No sales.

WHEAT—3@5c lower, and market unsettled, closing with a strong downward tendency. Sales in the early part of the day: 1,000 bus No. 1 to fill out a cargo at 86c; 200 bus uninspected wheat at 75c.

OATS—Unchanged, but rather inactive, though firm at 27@28c.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

—TO—

MILLWRIGHTS AND OWNERS.

The Excelsior Water Wheel Co.

ARE MANUFACTURING A NEW KIND of Water Wheel, patented this May, and 18th December, 1858, by H. Mitchell, of Oswego, N. Y. It is on an entirely new principle of obtaining power, and of control of the water, by one or more gates. It is greater than any wheel now in use, and by any other wheel now in use. Some of the advantages of this wheel are:

1st. We obtain the ENTIRE WEIGHT of the water, and have the advantage of the full head and fall from water to wheel.

2d. It requires all other wheels in velocity and power.

3d. It is perfectly under the control of the workmen, either when used to drive a large or small amount of machinery, as the strength of the wheel is not limited by power required, as in most wheels. It needs no more water when it is doing a large amount of work than when doing a little. Any part of the wheel can be shut off by one gate, and the whole by another.

4th. It occupies less space than any other wheel—is placed inside the flume, near the entrance of the water, and is not affected by ice.

5th. The wheel is very durable, being made of iron, and can be put in and taken out in a very short time. Grist Mills, Grist Mill machinery of all kinds, with less expense than any of the wheels. The wheel will run in either direction, and because of gearing up is avoided for nearly all purposes.

Together with the advantages above stated, we are ready to warrant the Excelsior Wheel as equal to the following figures, for each foot fall of water:

Inch Wheel		Horse-power.
10	52.10	horse-power.
12½	79.30	"
15	1.14	"
17½	1.51.100	"
20	1.83	"
22½	2.20	"
25	2.35.70	"
27½	2.51.70	"
30	2.67.70	"
32½	3.04.50	"
35	3.20.50	"
37½	3.36.50	"
40	3.52.50	"

Wheels of the above size can be made to 60 horse-power or more. When sold, are complete with gates, ready to put in the flume. Will be sent to any place in the United States, which can be done with less expense than any other wheel.

The Company employ efficient workmen, who will put them in any place in workmanlike manner, at reasonable rates. The Wheel can be offered at a less price than any other wheel in market.

W. B. STURGESS, Sec'y, Troy, N. Y.

CERTIFICATES.

MESSRS. STURGESS, &c.: Troy, Dec. 1, 1858.

Dear Sirs—In answer to your inquiry in relation of the Fairchild Patent Water Wheel that you put into my factory for me, I have great pleasure in stating that it has given entire satisfaction, and is not a Breast Wheel so far as the power is concerned, but a Reaction, by 6 feet Burden, and perhaps more with more water. I would say to those wishing to purchase a wheel, that they cannot do better than to purchase the Excelsior Wheel. It is the only wheel that I have ever seen that will do what it is recommended to do. Yours, &c.,

E. H. CARLISLE.

SHELDON, Franklin Co., Vt., June 29, 1858.

Dear Sir—I have one of Mr. Fairchild's wheels in operation at my Machine Shop, which I can recommend to be durable and powerful. It is capable of passing all the drawings which are ordered for it. The wheel is very simple in construction, and durable. It gives more power, and runs more steadily than the twelve foot Breast Wheel which I have heretofore used, requiring less water by at least one-third and fall.

H. CARLISLE.

Many other testimonials from heavy eastern manufactories may be seen at our office, where the wheels are in use, and can be examined at will, and where they will at all times be kept on hand to supply the demand. We are now engaged in building a Saw Mill and other Machinery necessary for the manufacture of Sash, Doors and Blinds at the manufactory of M. J. Shinn, Esq., Utica, Mich., to which place any and all are invited to call and examine it under practical test, and a motion of the wheel for one minute. For further information address

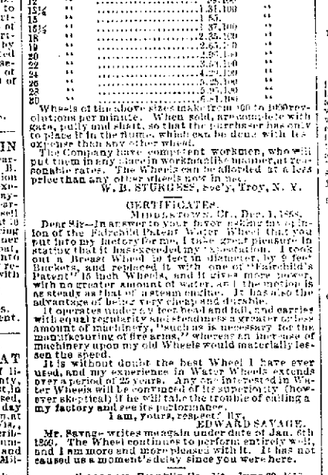
MOORE'

Thirty Dollar, Double Lock Stitch,



FAMILY SEWING MACHINE!!

SECURED BY RECENT LETTERS PATENT.

THE ADVENT OF THIS NEW, MOST useful and incomparable Machine is destined to create a great and decided change in public opinion and the subject of the Sewing Machine.

We confidently assert and can conclusively prove, by a practical demonstration, that this Sterling and Reliable Machine is the only one that combines all SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES to be found in any Sewing Machine now before the public, regardless of price. With a few quick motions of the adjustments and perfections of other Machines, Mr. Moore has sought to form a machine which may be adapted to the examination of this beautiful piece of machinery, will at once establish it as the only practicable one. The other is far complicated, and not to be compared to the present Machine now sold. It does literally learn the spools, (as hungry as it is to sew,) and will not sew one inch before the machine, and the adjustment, and makes the strongest, most even, and shortest stitch, more stitches per inch, more elasticity, &c., &c., of any goods, though the stitch is entirely of every kind, and is stitch possessed by the same, all kinds of goods, from coarse to fine, and will do the best work on every goods, thereby making it particularly applicable for articles that require washing and ironing. The machinery for feeding the cloth is unlike all others, and is without doubt, the best ever invented. The breaking of needles, a common and extremely annoying occurrence with most other Machines, is entirely overcome in this; with proper care one needle will last for months. The new Machine is simple in construction, and made in every respect perfect and durable. Unlike other Machines, there is no danger of getting the stitch too tight or too loose, as none can be put in the Machine. It is also made large enough for every description of sewing, there being a space of nine inches in length, by four in height, between the needle and end of the Machine. In beauty of design and overhanging construction, it stands entirely alone; in all the movements being positive, and the tightening limit, there is not the slightest objection, or liability of getting out of order. It stands entirely upon its own merits, and needs no better reference than its own good works to convince the most skeptical. It is the most valuable and humanizing invention of the age.

It is our intention to sell a small portion of the territory for Counties or States, upon a suitable and fair basis. As a saving and highly remunerative investment it has no equal. Extensive great companies have been made for the sale of the Machine, and the large part to owners of machines, commend the enterprise to the attention of all who wish to secure a permanent and profitable business. Those wishing the Machine, severally bound by express or otherwise, to any address upon receipt of the price, will be promptly attended to. Send for a descriptive circular giving full particulars.
